Demonstrated benefits for sponsors:

1. Position and promote your organization as a leading contributor and supporter of CouchDB.
2. Associate your organization with North America’s most important CouchDB community gathering
3. Support emerging developers and technology leaders
4. Make connections and build lasting relationships with an incredible community.

About Cloudant:

Cloudant’s distributed database as a service (DBaaS) allows developers of fast-growing web and mobile apps to focus on building and improving their products, instead of worrying about scaling and managing databases on their own.

Cloudant was developed in 2008 by the scientists responsible for managing and distributing the petabytes of data generated every second by the Large Hadron Collider. Cloudant’s team plays an integral part of the CouchDB Community.

Today, Cloudant is used by Samsung, Adobe, Microsoft, Fidelity Investments, Hothead Games, and thousands of others who share Cloudant’s passion for database scalability, durability, and innovation.

Who Should Sponsor?

CouchDB Conf is your best opportunity to receive targeted exposure to a group of developers, technology leaders, and decision makers active in the open source database community.

Whether your goal is to support the community, develop partnerships, or make contacts, CouchDB Conf is the perfect platform. Sponsorship of CouchDB Conf offers a unique opportunity to both support and reach a dedicated group of highly engaged, influential developers in a volunteer-run community.
